Management's Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Government Income Fund (Class A/JHGIX) declined 1.20% (excluding sales charges) for the year ended May 31, 2024. Government bonds experienced weak returns, with falling prices offsetting the contribution from income. The market initially declined in the span from June to October 2023, when persistent inflation fueled worries that the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed) would keep interest rates "higher for longer." The picture changed in November-December 2023, when cooling inflation and comments from Fed officials raised hopes that the central bank could enact rate cuts in the year ahead. The market gave back much of this gain in the first five months of 2024, however, as elevated inflation weighed on earlier hopes that the Fed would be able to cut rates aggressively.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS

Holdings outside of U.S. Treasury issues | The fund's allocation to agency mortgage-backed securities produced a positive return.

Positions in government-backed securitized assets | The fund's overall allocation to interest-only securities in this area, while modest, also helped results.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS

U.S. Treasuries | The fund's positions Treasuries suffered a negative return in the aggregate.

Freddie Mac issues | Certain holdings in interest-only securities issued by Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation lost ground.
