Management's Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Lifestyle Blend Conservative Portfolio (Class 1/JLCGX) returned 11.16% for the year ended August 31, 2024. Stocks rallied as falling inflation raised hopes that the U.S. Federal Reserve would start cutting interest rates. Positive global growth, steady corporate earnings, and excitement surrounding the adoption of AI added to the upbeat tone. In this environment, U.S. equities, the growth style, and the information technology sector outpaced the market as a whole. Bonds also produced gains, with income accounting for the majority of the category's total return. Credit-oriented categories generally outperformed those with higher interest-rate sensitivity.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS

The fixed-income allocation made the largest contribution | Positions in intermediate-term bond funds, which benefited from holdings in investment-grade corporates, were top contributors. Allocations to high-yield bond, bank loan, and dollar-denominated emerging market debt funds also contributed.

Equity allocation also contributed | Holdings in U.S. large cap, international large cap and mid cap stock funds were the leading contributors in equities.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS

There were no detractors | At a time of positive performance for the financial markets, none of the fund's holdings finished the period with a negative return.

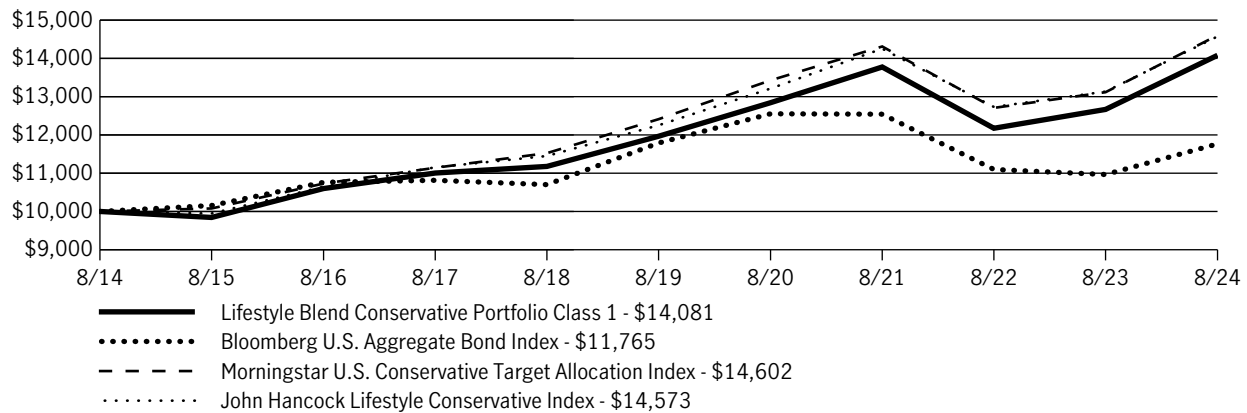

Local-currency emerging-market debt | Although the fund had no detractors, a position in an emerging markets debt fund held in local currency, while positive, was among the smallest contributors due to its limited weighting.
