Management's Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Multimanager Lifestyle Aggressive Portfolio (Class C/JCLAX) returned 12.56% (excluding sales charges) for the year ended December 31, 2024. Global equities performed well in 2024, but much of the gain came from a narrow group of mega-cap, technology-related stocks that drove sizable outperformance for the U.S. growth style. While value stocks, developed-market international equities, and emerging markets equities all recorded positive returns, they didn't keep up with the headline global indexes. Bonds also produced gains, with credit-oriented categories and shorter-dated debt producing the best results. Longer-term securities and other rate-sensitive market segments lagged.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS

The fund's equity allocation made the largest contribution | U.S. large- and mid-cap stocks were the leading contributors to absolute performance.

Other holdings in equities | International large-cap stocks, U.S. small caps, defensive equities and emerging markets equities also contributed.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS

The fixed-income allocation | This segment of the fund posted a loss, primarily as a result of a position in U.S. Treasury STRIPS (Separate Trading of Registered Interest and Principal of Securities). The category lagged due to its high degree of interest-rate sensitivity.

Select holdings in the real assets portfolio | While the real assets allocation contributed overall, positions in international real estate investment trusts and energy stocks detracted from absolute performance.
