Management's Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Multimanager Lifestyle Growth Portfolio (Class I/JTGIX) returned 11.92% for the year ended December 31, 2024. Global equities performed well in 2024, but much of the gain came from a narrow group of mega-cap, technology-related stocks that drove sizable outperformance for the U.S. growth style. While value stocks, developed-market international equities, and emerging markets equities all recorded positive returns, they didn't keep up with the headline global indexes. Bonds also produced gains, with credit-oriented categories and shorter-dated debt producing the best results. Longer-term securities and other rate-sensitive market segments lagged.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS

The fund's equity allocation made the largest contribution | U.S. large- and mid-cap stocks were the leading contributors to absolute performance.

Other holdings in equities | International large-cap stocks, defensive equities, U.S. small caps and emerging markets equities also contributed.

The fixed-income allocation | Emerging-market debt, intermediate-term bonds and bank loans were top contributors. High-yield bonds, short-term Treasury Inflation Protected Securities and a multi-sector bond fund also helped results.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS

Select holdings in the real assets portfolio | While the real assets allocation contributed overall, positions in international real estate investment trusts and energy stocks detracted from absolute performance.

U.S. Treasury STRIPS (Separate Trading of Registered Interest and Principal of Securities) | Certain holdings in this area were adversely affected by their above-average interest-rate sensitivity.
