Management’s Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

2010 Lifetime Blend Portfolio (Class 1/JRLDX) returned 11.97% for the year ended August 31, 2024. Stocks rallied as falling inflation raised hopes that the U.S. Federal Reserve would start cutting interest rates. Positive global growth, steady corporate earnings, and excitement surrounding the adoption of AI added to the upbeat tone. In this environment, U.S. equities, the growth style, and the information technology sector outpaced the market as a whole. Bonds also produced gains, with income accounting for the majority of the category’s total return. Credit-oriented categories generally outperformed those with higher interest-rate sensitivity.

TOP PERFORMANCE CONTRIBUTORS

All segments of the fund gained | Given the robust performance for the financial markets, each of the fund’s major allocations contributed positively.

The equity allocation made the largest contribution | Holdings in U.S. large caps, defensive stocks, and international large caps were the leading contributors in the category.

Fixed income allocation also contributed | Positions in high-yield bonds, bank loans, and dollar-denominated emerging-market debt were top contributors. Allocations to short- and intermediate-term bond funds, both of which benefited from holdings in investment-grade corporates, also helped results.

TOP PERFORMANCE DETRACTORS

There were no major detractors | The fund’s allocation to U.S. Treasury STRIPS (Separate Trading of Registered Interest and Principal of Securities) made the smallest contribution.

Local-currency emerging-market debt | This segment of the fund was among the smallest contributors due to its limited weighting.
